Tells How Yankee Genius Solved Problem of Winter Cucumbers

Tedium of Prolonged Hearing on Famous Bee Case Against the City of New York Relieved By Much Interesting Information About Bees and Their Habits

The celebrated bee case of John B. Marvin of Grand Gorge against the city of New York for the destruction of two hundred colonies of his Italian bees and the emancipation of the bees composing one hundred and twenty-five additional colonies by reason of the blasting of the engineers of the New York Board of Water Supply in drilling test holes to ascertain the extent below the surface of the bedrock upon which the Schoharie dam and Shandaken tunnel could be constructed, consumed the time of the commission composed of Messrs. Kelly, Mayhew and Shea last week.

In addition to the matters which appeared at the first hearing of the claim and then were published in The Star, the hearing developed many other interesting facts regarding bees, the proper manner of keeping them, and the great productivity of honey bees having a suitable range from which to collect honey. Mr. Marvin's colony is in the center of a wild thyme growth which yields an abundant supply of the finest honey known to connoisseurs. Among the witnesses called was Mr. Lesser, a celebrated apiarist of Onondaga county, and Mr. Clapp, one of the engineers of the Board of Water Supply. Mr. Lesser's business solely is that of raising honey bees and honey. He described in great detail the proper method of conducting it, and its results. Mr. Clapp keeps bees on a smaller scale, but has studied bees and their habits for many years.

Among the interesting details presented to the commission was the method by which the great cucumber greenhouse people of Dorchester, Massachusetts, supply the American market with hot-house cucumbers during the winter. Only a few years ago it was practically impossible to procure cucumbers in the winter except at an enormous price. Now they can be bought in large quantities at a reasonable figure. At any time northern and western cities are not dependent upon the Florida and Georgia crop. The testimony showed that for years experiments had been conducted in the effort to raise cucumbers in the winter until finally some Yankee genius at Dorchester, having read in an Australian newspaper that the Australians had succeeded in raising red

WILLED MONEY TO GERMANY

Former School Teacher Left Part of Estate to Pay Reparations.

Miss Gertrude C. Schmidt, the former private school teacher whose death at Philadelphia recently was for a time shrouded in mystery, provided in her will for a part of her $60,000 estate to go toward the payment of Germany's reparations to the allies. The sum for reparations is to come from half of the estate which she leaves to her sister, Wilhelmina Schmidt of Milwaukee, upon the latter's death. The principal will then revert to the Deutsche bank, Berlin, to be transferred to the reparations committee. If the German debt has been cleared, then the will provides that the money be used as a fund for a camp for German children in the Ruhr valley. The will for the camp, the will stipulates, must "not be infested by Frenchmen."

Miss Schmidt was a teacher of German in a girl's school in Bryn Mawr until the war made the teaching of German unpopular. She then was employed in the foreign trade department of Philadelphia cotton brokers. She held several degrees, including a Ph. D. from Bryn Mawr college.

MYSTERY TRAIN OF RUSSIAN IS TALK OF PARIS

Discovers Electric Engine Which Operates on Naptha.

ENGINEERS SQUARED AT IDEA

But Makhonine Actually Made the Thing Run From Moscow to Petrograd at Rate of 57 Miles an Hour—Grateful Soviet Leader Lets Him Leave Russia, and Now He Is Offering His Secret to Government of France.

There is actually a mysterious Russian in Paris. That mysterious Russian has a "big" at all to do with Bolshevism, but very much with science. If what he says is true, he has made one of the greatest discoveries on earth and he is going to revolutionize the world. Of course a Russian has always got to revolutionize the world somehow, writes Stephanie Leuzanne, editor-in-chief of Paris "Le Matin," in the New York Tribune.

The name of the man is Makhonine. He married Natalia Ermolenko, one of the greatest opera singers, who is at this moment carrying the day at Barcelona. He has—to put it quite simply— invented an electric train which runs without the aid of any electric current.

In 1918 Mr. Makhonine had worked out the plan of this extraordinary train when the revolution broke out. He was at Petrograd at that time, and, of course, he could not execute his plan. However, he succeeded in interesting some factory workmen in his ideas. Charmed by its original conception, they consented to work for its realization.

Engine Actually Works.

Three months later the first engine was ready. And, to the great surprise of the Russian engineers, who had unceasingly scoffed at the idea and pretended that it was impossible to construct an electric train to run on Mr. Makhonine's proposed (that is to say, without trolley or accumulator), on October 15, 1919, for the first time in the world an electric train, piloted by its inventor, went from Moscow to Petrograd, covering the 400 miles in eight hours—the condition of the rails not permitting a greater speed.

Mr. Makhonine's train was remarkable in these respects: That it could make a long run without stopping, that it was not required to stop anywhere on the road to take up fuel supplies or water, since it did not consume any, and that, without additional costs, the locomotive motor supplied light and heat for the whole train.

The line traversed by an express from Petrograd to Moscow up to that time had required a train with a total weight of 600 tons; the engine weighed 187 tons and had to be supplied with fuel four times during the journey; it consumed 830 pounds of naptha or 1,850 pounds of coal. The special train which Mr. Makhonine established in Russia weighed only 120 tons in all, less than the engine of the old train and for the same distance of 400 kilometers used not more than seventy pounds of naptha, one-thirtieth of the consumption of an ordinary train.

Of course, all Russia spoke of the marvelous discovery at the time. The Commission of Inventions met on March 21, 1921, at Petrograd, and spent an entire sitting deliberating on the Makhonine train.

Eminent Engineers Present.

There were present the most eminent engineers and professors of the Socialist Federated Republic of the Soviets of Russia: MM. J. O. Mikhalovsky, M. Blistanof, G. Bogolouf, I. Sekanue, T. Martman, A. Kaufman, Sventorgensky, Graillo, Kerstner, Kobosof, Rosenweig and Ignatenko. These gentlemen confirmed the statements I have made above.

After having examined the train they further agreed that it could run without stopping as long as the axles of the cars attached to the electric locomotive could bear it. At this meeting the members of the commission of inventions decided, by way of encouragement, to grant to Makhonine, who had solved a problem which had puzzled the best brains of 1917, 50,000 rubles (the ruble still had some value then). They decided further to make an advance to Mr. Makhonine for the perfecting and developing of his invention and to give him another reward if the commission of ways and communications decided to adopt his system.

Events followed their course, and Mr. Makhonine continued personally to pilot his train, in which sometimes Commissioner Trotsky traveled, and sometimes some of the other dignitaries of the government. But this daily work to which he forced himself was telling on his health, for our engineer had not been able to resist the food privations of the first years of Bolshevism, and he had almost reached the extreme limit of his strength when, on a certain day of November, 1921, at Petrograd, Mr. Dzerzhinsky, the great master of the Tchecha, whose presence in Moscow was urgent, asked him if he would consent to permit his car to be coupled to the electric train. The inventor consented. The train ran straight on to Moscow without a single hitch. Getting out of his car, Mr. Dzerzhinsky sky approached the engineer, thanked him and said:

"I also would like to render you a service. Have you anything you would wish to ask of me?"

"I should like to leave Russia, for my health is ebbing fast away."

"I have promised and I am true to my given word," said Dzerzhinsky.

"Whenever you wish you shall have the authorization to leave."

"With my wife?"

"Oh!" exclaimed Dzerzhinsky, "that will be more difficult, but since I have promised, I shall also give your wife permission to leave Russia."

The following month Mr. Makhonine left Russia. But he took not only his wife but also his secret away with him. Once he had left it became impossible to move the wonderful train. Today it is rusting in a corner of the Nicolaievsk station at Petrograd.

Mr. Makhonine is now in Paris. And the secret which he would not give up to Russia he is offering to the French government for the French railroads. He declares that his engine could run, without once stopping, from Paris to Nice, and at the speed of 100 miles an hour.

"My engine," says he, "produces its electric energy itself, thanks to the use of naptha in a special apparatus" placed on the engine. Naptha is the only thing which my train needs to run; they use neither water nor coal, nor electric current, and are smokeless."

The French engineers are rather skeptical—like all engineers. Nevertheless, the facts are there. And there is no doubt whatsoever that the experiment succeeded in Russia. Why should it not succeed in France? Let us wait. The mystery of the Makhonine train will no doubt soon be solved—like all mysteries.

REVEALS SECRETS OF SEA

New Death Finder Constructed on Wireless Wave Principle.

Ships may proceed safely through fogs or shallow channels, lost vessels loaded with treasure may be discovered and floating mines located by the electric d.p.h. finder, the invention of which has just been announced, according to Professor Langervin, the inventor. Professor Langervin holds the chair of general and experimental physics in the College of France.

"It was during the war that I began to work in this direction, for the purpose of helping the allied navies locate mines," he explained.

The apparatus is constructed on the wireless wave principle, and d.p.h.s are found within a given radius by means of what Professor Langervin calls "wave echoes." The apparatus is small and may be attached to a vessel's wireless equipment.

"Electric electric oscillation currents are given off," the inventor explained, "and these radiating in any direction and for any distance more than fifteen feet, register any unusual obstacles in the water. When the current strikes an obstacle it is interrupted, and sends back to the apparatus the signals which I describe as echoes. If it is desired, one may measure the depth of the sea for several miles."

STATE DEBT TO DAIRYMEN

Farm Bureau Federation Urges Payment of Two Millions Due Under Tuberculosis Test Law.

Ithaca, Mar. 7. — The payment of nearly $2,000,000 in indemnities which the state owes dairymen for tuberculosis cattle slaughtered under the accredited herd plan, on appropriation of a sufficient sum to carry on the work, is regarded by the New York State Farm Bureau Federation as vital to a permanent program for the eradication of tuberculosis in the dairy herds of this state. H. E. Babcock, chairman of the tuberculosis committee of the federation stated here today.

An investigation of the accredited herd plan which has been adopted by several counties of the state to rid the dairy herds of tuberculosis, has been undertaken by the committee with the view of formulating a permanent plan which will be acceptable to New York state farmers and to state and federal authorities.

At a meeting held here recently, the committee passed the following resolutions: Whereas, the failure of the state of New York to provide for the prompt payment of indemnities on condemned cattle is requiring the expenditure by the state of a large amount of money for interest and is causing financial embarrassment to cattle owners.

Therefore, Be it resolved that it is the opinion of this committee that all appropriations should be made by the legislature of the state of New York to cover indemnities incurred to date.

And further, be it resolved that it is our opinion that an adequate appropriation should be made to finance the accredited herd plan. When a farmer enters his herd under the accredited herd plan he becomes party to a three party agreement whereby among other things he promises to submit his entire herd to a tuberculosis test and to slaughter under inspection, any animals showing evidence of the disease. The other two parties in the agreement are the state and federal governments. The state agrees to pay an indemnity upon the slaughtered animals not to exceed $112.50 on pure breeds and $47.50 on grade cows and the federal government agrees to pay one-third of the difference between the appraised value of the animal and the salable parts after slaughtering.

The state cows dairymen who have had their cattle tested for tuberculosis and slaughtered according to the accredited herd plan nearly $2,000,000 on which interest at six per cent is now being paid. The failure of the state to pay indemnities promptly has seriously handicapped them in making the necessary replacement in their herds and has consequently retarded the eradication of bovine tuberculosis which is vital to the health of city residents and of first importance to the dairy industry of this state. Mr. Babcock pointed out.

The tuberculosis committee has arranged a meeting at an early date with Berne A. Pyke, commissioner of agriculture, who directs eradication work in this state and J. L. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture to discuss other aspects of the plan not at present satisfactory to New York dairymen.

THE PRESS AND THE PUBLIC

Field's March.

Now we have with us March, with a disposition as unstable as the temperament of a prima donna soprano or a movie queen. Showless Marches have been known; so, also, have snow-laden ones. As for the thermometer, almost anything can be expected of it. A survey of the weather at presidential inaugurations, which occur on March 4, shows that whereas in 1873 four mild mishapisms among the paraders at Grant's inaugural died of exposure to the very weather, McKinley in 1897 was blessed with mildness, sunshine and a temperature away up in the sixties. Harding, in 1921, was inaugurated in a blinding rain. —(New York Telegram.)

No Precedent in 1884.

Nothing is needed but reference to the historic record to demonstrate the correctness of our state department's denial of the British suggestion that a precedent for the dismissal of the American consul at Newcastle-on-Tyne was set in the dismissal of certain British consuls in this country in 1884. The two cases were almost entirely dissimilar, though in their consequences there may be a hint of likeness. —(New York Tribune.)

All An Insurgent Can Do.

With the insurgents holding the balance of power in the new congress, anticipations of a stormy time are not likely to be disappointed. Perhaps they will quarrel too much among themselves to accomplish anything. An insurgent in control is in fact a contradiction of terms. It is his business to "insurge." More than this is behind him. —(Philadelphia Inquirer.)

Limiting Speed.

The New York legislator, who would have automobiles equipped with a mechanical device that would limit their speed to thirty miles an hour seems to have a good deal of support. But it is doubtful whether such a law would help much in life-saving. Under certain traffic conditions a speed of thirty miles is far more dangerous to life than sixty miles under other conditions. A mechanical device cannot take the place of human common sense. —(Wallace-Barre Record.)

Roosting For Candlemas.

Scientists may disprove them, but there remains some foundation for weather proverbs. The ground-hog or Candlemas day saying, read by itself, has an uncertain meaning. The day might be cloudy in one section and clear in another, both so near together as to experience practically the same kind of seasonal weather. This "shadow" prediction is not so much dependent on the ground-hog digging out through four feet of snow (only he doesn't) as on the fact that spring comes from the south, loading the upper air business decreases shadows and this advance of spring in the North; while, on the contrary, a bright, clear air shows that the polar atmosphere still encompasses. —(Springfield Republican.)

CAROLING AT EASTER.

One of the newest phases of the community music movement, which has made such important headway in this country since the war, is outdoor caroling on Easter morning along the lines of the very successful street caroling on Christmas Eve. Plans already are under way in many places for the rehearsing of the young people's groups which usually take part in the singing, and it is probable that within the next few years this public-spirited musical activity will become as characteristic a feature of the Easter celebration as the Christmas caroling is of the Yuletide festivities. The pleasant weather likely to prevail in the early spring is an added inducement.

Great mixed choruses of men, women and children have gathered for sunrise singing on Easter morning, notably on the Mount of Olives near Los Angeles and on the Mall in Central park, New York, but the idea which is now being fostered by choir and club leaders, Sunday school superintendents and community organizers, is the recruiting and training of smaller bands to traverse the routes through the town or take their stand at different locations, bringing to all the message of joy and awakening life. The sick and shut-ins who cannot go to church to hear the service are given particular attention.

Like the Christmas eve caroling, now held in hundreds of cities and towns throughout the country, outdoor singing at Easter is the revival and transplanting of a beautiful Old World custom. As is well known, many of the practices connected with the festival of the Resurrection are traceable to the heathen races of northern Europe, to whom the occasion represented the coming of spring, release from the bonds of winter and greeting to the re-birth in all nature. Easter eggs, signifying the terminating fertility of the season, flower salutations and Easter plays and spectacles come mostly from this source. The caroling is an expansion of the friendly salutation.

VALUE OF MILK DRINKING

Chinese fleeing Away From Old Habit of Abstaining From Its Use.

Washington, Mar. 4. — A hundred years or more ago the emperor of China, by imperial edict, declared it sinful for human beings to drink cow's milk. The august old lady thought it deprived calves of their natural food. Thus, without knowing it, perhaps, she created a dietary regime for Chinese children from which they are only now about to be released.

About a decade ago the Chinese began to take notice of the use of milk by missionaries, and, in the vicinity of the mission stations, began using their own cows and water buffalo as food sources. Once started on a milk diet, the trend has been growing by leaps and bounds. Importations of condensed milk, milk powders and the sale of ice cream in the foreign colonies of the large cities have turned the attention of the Chinese to milk drinking habits and they have now begun to study the benefits that might come to their children if the old superstition had not issued her edict.

America, with its billions of dollars invested in dairy cattle and products and machinery factories, is looking to China as a big outlet, and its hopes are about to be realized, according to the World's Dairy Congress association. A type of letter being received from the Far East by the association has just arrived from Edwood Varney, an American, milk expert of the Liberty dairy at Shanghai.

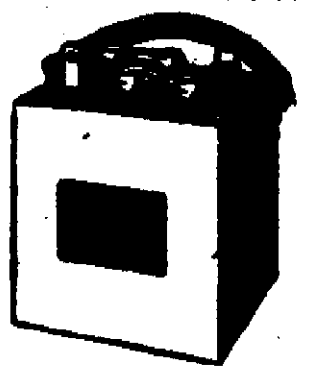

There is no better opportunity in the world than right here in China, writes Mr. Varney in a plea for aid in setting American dairy school men to the Orient. "The kind of men wanted are the sort who are as much interested in the future of dairying as they are in fattening their own pocket-books. We do not want the self-seeking. We want the deer and the aliver, and he will find himself rightly rewarded."

Mr. Varney's chief, Mr. Yee, owner of the Liberty dairy at Shanghai, a Cornell university graduate, is going to attend the World Dairy Congress in Washington in October. Furthermore, he is going to take back to China with him a large number of pure-bred dairy cattle, with the object of establishing breeding stations similar to the horse-breeding stations established in the United States by the government. These cattle-breeding stations are to be operated by Americans with American dairy school training and methods which call for the utilization of American dairy machinery and utensils.

Say bean milk and cheese are in use in Japan as well as China and the World's Dairy Congress association is interested to cow's milk and cheese in that country also. The natives with American institutions training are starting the movement.

Spring Real Estate Activities

Our 1923 list of Oneonta property contains homes in all sections of the city. Several new cottages, nearly completed, will be finished to suit taste of buyer. Or, we will build from beginning using buyer's plans. We gladly show our property and talk with house-hunters.

We invite property owners to list their houses with us, by our "no sell, no pay" plan, no charge for listing or withdrawal.

By constant advertising we have the usual number of spring out-of-town buyers, many with spot cash, ready to buy if they can get what they want. It is up to us to suit them. If we do not have the listing we can not suit our prospects and the city will lose a citizen. Our prospects will buy if owners will sell.

We have calls for singles, doubles, rooming, two flats, corner stores, brick blocks, residences, vacant lots, nearby plots, factory sites and business opportunities. We do not deal in far-flung. H. M. Bard & Son, long established real estate dealers, 8 Broad street, advt 21

QUOTA OVER HALF REACHED

Twenty-Eight Children Adopted of Life Through Contributions to Near East Relief Fund—Over $4,500 of $8,000 Quota Reached.

That $1,113.62, an amount sufficient to care for 25 children, has been raised to date in Oneonta in the Near East Relief drive, was the gratifying report made to committee chairman and members who met in executive session at the Community house yesterday afternoon. The program since Monday has been notable, since on that date but little more than $1,000 had been raised.

Rev. Dr. John Flynn reported that Sunday School classes and other organizations of the First Methodist church had pledged to care for three additional children. Robert Hall reported that the United Presbyterian Sunday school would take one child and that he had received at the Wilber bank $25 in cash contributions. It was stated that Mrs. D. A. Diabandoff would care for one child and that Mrs. Leonard Stanhouse had secured contributions or pledges enough to save two children. O. B. Rowe will support a child for a year, and the River Street Baptist Sunday school will take care of a child for half a year. Principal H. G. VanDeusen reported that enough money had been raised in the High school to support one child and that the grammar grades would take care of one.

On Saturday the Boy Scouts distributed to homes 2,400 envelopes for cash contributions. Envelopes returned up to yesterday netted $19.25. Mr. Fettererch is in need of volunteer women to collect these envelopes and asks that those who will devote a brief period of time to this work contribute with the Community house. The women will not be asked to solicit subscriptions.

Remember that $50 will support a child for a year, $4 for a month. Small contributions will be gladly received. Robert Hall at the Wilber National bank is the man to whom subscriptions should be made.

Mr. Fettererch, in charge of the drive in Oneonta, is hoping that the impetus which the drive has secured during the past week will carry the city over the top within a few days. Fifty children is the city's quota.

THEY MUST HAVE THEM

Even March Blizzards Fail to Check Sales of Ford Cars.

In stormy weather as well as in fair and during March blizzards as well as during the rainy weather of June the demand for Ford cars continues unabated, the people simply must have them, says R. J. Warren of the Oneonta Sales company. Yesterday while the snow was piling up on the roads making his safe return home later in the day a matter of doubt, W. B. Dayton, the agent at Bloomville, was at the office of Mr. Warren arranging for four cars which later in the day he and his assistants drove away, starting homeward. Albert Stanton of Laurens was at the building yesterday and during the afternoon drove home a new Ford touring car.

There are no days in the year when we look unfavorably upon preparing an advertisement for The Star, said Mr. Warren. Conditions often might think unfavorable to doing business in the sale of motor cars, are our opportunities to stimulate sales and keep the volume of business above the margin of expenses. We know we have a car that will give service and that its price is right and we also know that constant persistent advertising in a medium which so thoroughly covers its field as does The Star is one of the best business aids we have.

Westway Brotherhood Banquet

The Wesleyan Brotherhood of the First Methodist Episcopal church held a banquet at the church parlors on Tuesday evening which about forty attended. After a delicious dinner Judge W. Irving Bolton, teacher of the class presided and there were several speakers.

A musical program of instrumental and vocal music immediately followed the dinner which was most enjoyable. Judge Bolton after a few words introduced John Lyon and Jerry Wilson, who spoke briefly, and then Dr. Flynn gave a talk on "Entangling Alliances."

The banquet was in every way successful and the spirit of the class was considerably enlivened.

GIVEN FULL CONTROL

J. T. Loeve Now in Absolute Charge of D. & H. Operation

CLIFFORD S. SIMS OUSTED

Operation Last Year Over a Half Million Dollars Sold to Near East Relief and Other Changes Announced by J. T. Loeve in the Shop Policy Board.

The accession of James Taber Loeve to the vice presidency and general management of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad company, the retirement of E. P. Gutelius to a "residential vice presidency," and the ousting of Clifford S. Sims as vice president and general manager are changes in the official personnel of the railroad now being discussed in inner railroad circles.

It is unofficially reported that the $17,000 salary of Mr. Gutelius is cut $15,000 and his office removed to Montreal, while Mr. Loeve is on the payroll at $15,000 for services formerly jointly performed by himself and Mr. Gutelius. It is estimated that the railroad will save $17,000 yearly by the shift.

Mr. Loeve in Albany said: "The change was not expected by me. I did not know anything about it until informed of my appointment after the board of directors met in New York last Wednesday."

"There will be no changes in the offices of the vice president and general manager other than those necessitated by the combination of these two offices."

Other changes in the official circles of the road are expected and J. O. McGrew, who was in charge of the maintenance and operation, is already said to be "out," but the report is not officially confirmed.

Mr. Sims as vice president and general manager had charge of traffic and freight departments. Dissatisfaction with the management of the road, according to reports, is said to be the cause of the changes, together with the purchase of the Delaware and Hudson right of way into Montreal and the Southern and Naperville Junction line from Rouses Point.

Mr. Gutelius came on June 1, 1917, to the Delaware and Hudson road from the Canadian Government railways, of which he was general manager. He assumed control at Albany.

The railroad last year, according to the financial reports, showed an operating loss of more than half a million dollars and had to dig into its surplus to pay dividends. The first two months of this year, it is said, has failed to show any improvement in operating conditions, and the board of directors, with the Kuhn Loeb Banking company of New York, decided upon a change.

Mr. Loeve went to New York city Tuesday and minor officials are wondering what the next move will be. It is thought a new slate of those "to go" is being prepared and that Mr. Loeve is in New York for the purpose of going over proposed changes with his father and perhaps some of the members of the board of directors.

MACCABEES MAY BUILD

Project of Constructing a Temple Adapted to Needs of Organization to be Discussed at Tonight's Meeting.

At the meeting of the Oneonta Maccabees to be held this evening the project of building or buying a permanent home for the organization will be considered and it is the desire of the officers and the leaders of the tent that all members attend and give expression to their views on the important subject.

It has been appreciated for some time that the present club rooms were not large enough for the meetings and while there has been some talk in the past it has been largely among the members and not brought before the organization in any definite form.

It is important in such a matter that there be the fullest possible discussion and those who fail to attend should unite heartily in whatever decision is reached. However, it would be far better to be present and make your views known and to give the other members the benefit of your judgment and observation.

The meeting is called for 8 o'clock and a record attendance is expected.

THE MOTHERS' CLUB

Interesting Papers and Discussions at Meeting Yesterday.

There was a good attendance at the March meeting of the Mothers' club, which was held yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist church. Mrs. A. B. Davis read pertinent selections from Dr. Wilbur Craft's interesting book, "That Boy and Girl of Yours." This was followed by an original paper by Mrs. Clarence Avery, her theme being "Childhood" and by one by "Religion Training in the Home" by Mrs. N. R. Burd. Preceding the papers, which were of a high order of merit, Miss Ethel Beach read two poems, "A Heap o' Livin'" and "The Stick Together Family," and the meeting closed with a general discussion of present day problems suggested by the papers themselves.

The next meeting will be held the first Wednesday in April, in the Woman's club rooms.

Rude Stomach Coughs in a Hurry

For colds, coughs, etc. all kinds of ailments. Really and cheaply relieved.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a pint bottle, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use distilled molasses, honey, or cane syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway spruce, and is the best remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "Pinex" and get it with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

RECORD NUMBER OF DEATHS.

February Most Fatal Month Since Influenza Epidemic of 1918.

Thirty-four deaths in the city during the month of February constitute a record number, it is believed, for any one month in the history of Oneonta, except during the influenza epidemic of 1918. In October of that year there were 49 deaths.

The number for last month, the shortest of the year, is far above the average even for the winter months, in which the heaviest mortality generally occurs. In February of 1922 but 15 deaths occurred in the city. The average number of deaths in a month is between 14 and 16.

Contrary to general belief, influenza and its dread follower, pneumonia, did not constitute the greatest cause of death. But slight deaths were attributed to that cause. The changeable weather, doubtless aggravated other diseases and was indirectly responsible for the majority of the deaths, however.

During the month of February 19 births were recorded at the city clerk's office. Eight marriage licenses and 29 hunting licenses were issued during that period.

A STORY OR TWO

A negro company was stationed at Camp Lee, Virginia, for training during the World War, says Judge. One afternoon during the drill announcement was made that next morning the company would be trained in attacking a fortification. After the troops were dismissed a big, awkward-looking private approached the dapper young corporal in charge of his squad and said, "Corporal, what is a fortification, anyhow?" And in a tone of utter contempt for such ignorance the corporal replied: "Don't you know no 'rithmetic a tall? Anybody ought to know dat two twentifications make a fortification."

DISPEL CLOUDS WITH AIRPLANE

CLEARS FOG; INSURES SAFETY

Rainfall Caused and Clouds Made to Disappear in Experiments Conducted at McCook Field at Dayton, O.—Experimenters Claim Discovery Will Be of Great Value to Commercial World in Insuring Safety to Travel and Transportation.

Rainfall has been caused and clouds have been made to disappear in a series of experiments at McCook field at Dayton, O., according to announcement made by the experimenters, Prof. Wilder D. Emmerich of Cornell University and L. Francis Warren.

The experiments were made with the co-operation of the army air service. Results of the experiments were described as "absolutely uncanny" by observers at the army air field. In brief, the clouds were made to disappear and precipitate their moisture by the dropping of electrically charged grains of sand upon them from airplanes.

Prof. Emmerich and Mr. Warren claim that the process will be of great value in the commercial world, as fogs over cities, harbors and flying fields can be made to disappear, thereby insuring safety to travel and transportation. They do not claim that in every instance rain or precipitation can be produced, as they say all clouds do not contain sufficient moisture.

Army Gets Use of Patent.

In payment for its co-operation during the tests, the army air service has been given the free use of the process, for which patents are pending, for the removal of mists and fogs over its flying fields.

The experiments have been in progress at McCook field there for the last year and a half, and will be continued at Moundsville, W. Va., on the Washington-Dayton air route, and possibly at Washington, where fog conditions are more frequent and better than at Dayton.

In the experiments a La Perre plane, carrying about eighty pounds of sand, of about 150 mesh, with a wind-driven generator, operating an electric equipment capable of charging the sand with high voltage either positively or negatively at the will of the operator, was employed. The sand was charged to approximately 10,000 volts, or a charge of the order of 50,000 electro static units per grain, and was scattered through the action of the plane propeller at a height of about 500 feet above the tops of the clouds, the plane traveling at a rate of about 100 miles per hour.

The time taken to precipitate and destroy the clouds from the period of the first direct attack to the period of final disappearance, in each case, rarely exceeded ten minutes, and in several cases was less than five minutes, Mr. Warren said.

Made Holes in Clouds.

It was found in the experiments that wherever the charged particles of sand, in sufficient quantity, were released at the top of a cloud, and the cloud was of opposite charge to the sand, a large hole, in a fraction of a minute, was made through the entire cloud from top to bottom.

No large-scale attempts were made, Mr. Warren said, at artificial rain-making with heavy rain clouds, as the experiments were solely directed at the removal of mists and fogs covering areas extensive enough to justify the army air service in installing the process over one of its foggy flying fields. He said that all heavy rain clouds are highly electrified and it was not deemed safe to deal with them with high voltages until measures were taken to guard against possible accidents to the pilots and planes.

At its Moundsville (W. Va.) field the army air service purposes to employ a capative balloon, containing an electric equipment and anchored by cable to a truck. The balloon and equipment will keep the field and its surrounding regions free from fog and also serve as a beacon light and day during misty or foggy weather. The balloon and equipment will be illuminated so that it may be seen by flyers and the location of the open and free landing space determined.

TO RESTORE WAR INSURANCE

Veterans Who Permitted Term Insurance to Lapse Can Again Get It Reinstated.

Washington.—It will be news to many World War veterans to learn that the United States veterans' bureau has inaugurated a reinstatement campaign for the benefit of those who, either through misunderstanding or inability to meet premium payments, have permitted their term (war time) insurance to lapse.

Director Forbes announces that no matter how long a time has passed since the last premium was paid, an ex-service man may easily renew his term (war time) insurance contract if he is in good health, or if he is disabled, provided the disability from which he is suffering is due to service and is not of a total and permanent nature. Veterans will be particularly interested in learning that they may reimburse $1,000 or any higher amount, in multiples of $500, of the amount of insurance they carried while in the service. It will also be of interest to the public to know that over 500,000 of the men who applied for insurance during the war have continued their policies in force and that these ex-service men and women are carrying insurance protection amounting to the enormous sum of over $3,000,000,000.

The reinstatement requirements have been made most liberal; in fact, if an ex-soldier is in good health it is only necessary for him to furnish medical proof of that fact, and pay two monthly premiums on the amount of term insurance to be reinstated. Physicians have been appointed in all of the branch offices of the bureau where ex-service men can secure the necessary medical examination without cost. Detailed information may be obtained by writing to the United States Veterans' Bureau, Washington, D. C., but in the interest of accurate identification and promptness, the person writing should be sure to give his full name, rank and organization when in the service and, if possible, his serial number.

REFUSE TO LOOT SUPPLIES

Russian Bandits, 1,700 Strong, Never Attempt to Interfere With American Relief Work.

Samarra.—One of the largest bandit gangs in Russia—1,700 strong—which neither the red army nor famine has as yet stamped out, continues to operate in the Pughachoff district, but in no way have the robbers ever attempted to interfere with American relief workers.

It has been estimated that about 1,200 of the men have horses. The band is made up chiefly of army deserters who operate in units of fifteen to twenty men.

According to relief workers, the bandits always make it a point to avoid interfering with the work of the Relief Administration. In Balakoff the government warehouse was robbed while the American Relief Administration storage house, next door, bulging with cocoa, sugar, canned milk and other good things to eat, was not even touched.

As an illustration of further confidence by the bandits of the famine sufferers, it is related that some of the gang last summer rode up to one of the American Relief Administration village kitchens, merely tasted the food being prepared for the children; pronounced it very good, chucked a few youngsters under the chin, wishing them good appetites, and then went their way—to the home of the village treasurer, which they looted.

SCHENEVUS SPORTSMEN

Gather at Annual Dinner of Fish and Game Club—Oncotenans Among Guest Speakers.

Schenevus, Mar. 7.—The seventh annual dinner of the Schenevus Fish and Game Club, with President Herbert Bernard presiding, took place at the Hotel Potter on Tuesday evening. It was perhaps the most notable of all the gatherings because of the fact that Dr. Willard Scott of Brooklyn, Mass., the noted after-dinner speaker, came and gave one of his rattling, rapid fire talks. The forty three planters, fishermen and hunters who were in attendance had one of the happiest evenings of their lives and their shoulders shook in enjoyment of the humor of Dr. Scott's address.

Dr. Scott was the great surprise which President Bernard held back to the very moment of the opening of the post prandial part of the evening. The dinner was complete and well served. Then came some statistics by the secretary, E. P. Thyson, who seemed to have intimate knowledge of the propagation of certain members of the fur bearing family.

Hon. George L. Buckes of Oneonta contributed a highly enjoyable number in the form of a poem based upon the theme of the creation of fish life and kindred connections. Other speakers were George H. Wohlleben and Kenneth W. Goldthwaite of Oneonta and J. P. Frierly of Schenevus. Conservation, raw fishing and stories connected with them were incorporated in their remarks.

Dr. Scott took parts of several speeches and fitted them to the sportsmen. He explained that he had not the time to fish nor streams to fish in until he was fifty; that he had not learned, but he had caught fish in waters where he was so great an attraction that the fish would not leave his offerings alone, and where catching fish was like drawing freight. He admitted, however, to be an outdoor man. He said his pet sport was golf and he was a golfer with a G. A. R. record—"Out in 61 and back in 62." Of Schenevus, Dr. Scott said that he had noted the name of the town while traveling through the section; had often wondered what it was like and that he had finally come to form a delightful acquaintance with it and its residents, and in addition, had found at the dinner a program of varied and pleasing nature that was most unusual. He said that Schenevus would rank among the big towns, such as Richmond, Va., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Springfield, Mass., and many others in the east and west where he had spoken. He complimented President Bernard as a conservationist of man's fortune, of his digestive apparatus and of his good nature.

Emergency Coal Delivery Service

ANNOUNCEMENT NO. 4

Our Special Service that was used in the emergency last week will be put in operation again today. However, because of the unusually difficult traffic conditions, making it practically impossible to employ trucks in some localities, it will be necessary to limit orders to the First One Hundred Who Apply.

We will deliver 300 lbs. of Chestnut Coal

Contained in 100 pound sacks, to those who have on hand not more than 500 pounds of Chestnut, Range or Pea Coal, provided the order is telephoned to our office, 194 or 710, before 10 o'clock this morning. In using telephone, please be brief as possible, stating your name, address and number of sacks you desire.

PLEASE NOTE! This service is absolutely for CASH at the rate of 90c for 100 lbs., $1.55 for 200 lbs., $2.20 for 300 lbs. Please be provided with exact change if possible, and have someone at your home when delivery is made in the afternoon. Trucks will leave our yard at 1 p. m.

THIS SERVICE has been temporarily revived because of the unexpected return of heavy weather and because of the general scarcity of coal in the bins of consumers. During winter conditions it is the established policy of this Company to take no order unless it has the coal with which to fill the same and to take no order unless it can be delivered within three days. This enables us to keep closer to the immediate needs of the community and also prevents possible disappointments. It will be our plan, so far as conditions permit, to employ this Emergency Service with our Ice Department trucks whenever the fuel situation in this city becomes critical. Our supply of Chestnut and Range Coal is entirely adequate and we expect the present condition to be of short duration, but from the unusual demands made upon us the past two days and from the reports of our employees as to supplies in consumers' bins we have felt our truck service would assist some who might otherwise be out of fuel for a day or two.

THIS SPECIAL SERVICE has been revived at the suggestion of the Otsego County Fuel Administrator and has his approval both as to plan and prices charged. THE SERVICE is open to anyone having need of it.
